

ARTS ATTAAACK!

Augmentative Communication in Practice: Scotland are hoping to film the various activities taking place throughout the day with the intention of producing a video and / or DVD of the day. Free copies will be sent to people with disabilities who attend the day. Further copies will be available for a small charge to cover copying and distribution costs. Short clips might also be made available on the internet.

We will also be taking a small number of photographs to include with reports such as the ones that we need to send to the organisations who have provided funding for the day.

Please note that you will not be identified or named on photos or video unless you particularly request that your name be included (e.g. a workshop leader or keynote speaker might wish to be identified so that others can contact them).

We need people attending the ARTS attAAck! event to agree to being filmed. Please fill in this form and return it when you return your application form. If it is difficult for you to fill in the form, please get a carer to fill it in on your behalf.

Places are Limited

Places are limited. Please return your booking form as soon as possible. The closing date for applications is 30th September 2004.

We regret that in order to allow lots of people to attend, we are currently only able to allow a maximum of three people who use AAC (+ support workers) to come from any one centre.

There is currently no space for 'interested bystanders' to attend, but such people will be able catch up with the day on video / DVD (see over).

Bring your Communication Aid!

PLEASE make sure that you bring your communication aid with you, along with any other equipment, e.g. switches, that you need.

PLEASE make sure that your communication aid has been fully charged before you set out in the morning.

Augmentative Communication in Practice: Scotland

Augmentative Communication in Practice is an open group composed of people in Scotland who have an active interest in AAC - users of AAC, families, carers and professionals from a variety of different disciplines.

The core of the Organising Committee consists of individual members of staff from the different centres in Scotland with a particular interest in Augmentative and Alternative Communication - the CALL Centre, SCTCI, FACCT, KEYCOMM and TASSCC - and others.

Please fill in this form if you would like to come to ARTS attAACK!
